Case No. 2:16-cv-01042-JAD-CWH
REPORT & RECOMMENDATION

12 This matter was referred to the undersigned magistrate judge for a report of findings and 13 recommendations under 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1)(B)-(C) and Local Rule IB 1-4. The case involves 14 review of an administrative action by the Commissioner of Social Security (“Commissioner”)
15 denying Roger J. Halde’s (“Plaintiff”) application for disability insurance benefits under Title II of 16 the Social Security Act. The Court has reviewed Plaintiff’s motion for reversal/remand (ECF No.
17 17), filed January 19, 2017, and the Commissioner’s response and cross-motion to affirm (ECF
18 Nos. 20, 21), filed February 21, 2017.

19 BACKGROUND

20 1. Procedural History

21 On February 20, 2014, Plaintiff applied for disability insurance benefits, alleging an onset 22 date of July 30, 2013. AR¹ 172-175. Plaintiff’s claim was denied initially. A hearing was 23 conducted before an Administrative Law Judge (“ALJ”) on August 25, 2015. AR 43-62. The ALJ
24 denied Plaintiff’s claim in a decision dated October 14, 2015, indicating that Plaintiff was not 25 disabled from July 30, 2013 to the date of the decision. AR 22-35. The ALJ’s decision became the 26 Commissioner’s final decision on March 16, 2016 when the Appeals Council denied review. AR
27 1-3. Plaintiff, on May 9, 2016, commenced this action for judicial review under 42 U.S.C.
28

1 §§ 405(g). See ECF No. 1.

2 2. The ALJ Decision

3 The ALJ conducted the sequential five-step disability analysis set forth in 20 C.F.R.
4 § 404.1520(a). AR 22-35. At step one, he found Plaintiff had not performed substantial gainful
5 activity since Plaintiff's alleged onset date of July 30, 2013. AR 24. At step two, he found
6 Plaintiff had the severe medically determinable impairments of degenerative disc disease,
7 depression with paranoia, and a history of alcoholism. Id. At step three, he found Plaintiff's
8 impairments did not meet or equal an impairment listed in 20 C.F.R., Part 404, Subpart. P., App. 1.
9 AR 25. Before considering step four, the ALJ found Plaintiff had the RFC to perform sedentary
10 work, as defined in 20 C.F.R. § 404.1567(a), subject to the following limitations: he was able to 11 occasionally lift 10 pounds and frequently lift five pounds; he was able to sit for five hours in an 12 eight-hour period; he was able to stand or walk for two hours in an eight-hour period; he was 13 unable to climb but was able to perform occasional balancing, stooping, kneeling, crouching, and 14 crawling; he was able to tolerate occasional exposure to fumes, odors, dusts, gases, and poor
15 ventilation; he was capable of understanding, remembering, and he was able to interact
16 occasionally with coworkers, supervisors, and the general public. AR 27. At step four, the ALJ
17 determined Plaintiff was not capable of performing his past relevant work. AR 33. At step five,
18 relying on vocational-expert testimony, the ALJ found Plaintiff could perform other work existing 19 in the national economy and was therefore not disabled within the meaning of the Act. AR 34.

20 DISCUSSION

21 1. Standard of Review

22 Administrative decisions in social security disability benefits cases are reviewed under 42
23 U.S.C. § 405(g). See Akopyan v. Barnhart, 296 F.3d 852, 854 (9th Cir. 2002). Section 405(g)
24 states: "Any individual, after any final decision of the Commissioner of Social Security made after 25 a hearing to which he was a party, irrespective of the amount in controversy, may obtain a review
26 of such decision by a civil action . . . brought in the district court of the United States for the 27 judicial district in which the plaintiff resides." The court may enter "upon the pleadings and 28 transcripts of the record, a judgment affirming, modifying, or reversing the decision of the

1 Commissioner of Social Security, with or without remanding the cause for a rehearing.” Id. The
2 Ninth Circuit reviews a decision affirming, modifying or reversing a decision of the Commissioner
3 de novo. See Batson v. Commissioner, 359 F.3d 1190, 1193 (9th Cir. 2003).

4 The Commissioner’s findings of fact are conclusive if supported by substantial evidence.
5 See 42 U.S.C. § 405(g); Ukolov v. Barnhart, 420 F.3d 1002 (9th Cir. 2005). However, the 6 Commissioner’s findings may be set aside if they are based on legal error or not supported by 7 substantial evidence. See Stout v. Comm’r, Soc. Sec. Admin., 454 F.3d 1050, 1052 (9th Cir. 2006);
8 Thomas v. Barnhart, 278 F.3d 947, 954 (9th Cir. 2002). The Ninth Circuit defines substantial 9 evidence as “more than a mere scintilla but less than a preponderance; it is such relevant evidence
10 as a reasonable mind might accept as adequate to support a conclusion.” Andrews v. Shalala, 53
11 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 1995); see also Bayliss v. Barnhart, 427 F.3d 1211, 1214 n. 1 (9th Cir.
12 2005). In determining whether the Commissioner’s findings are supported by substantial evidence, 13 the court “must review the administrative record as a whole, weighing both the evidence that 14 supports and the evidence that detracts from the Commissioner’s conclusion.” Reddick v. Chater, 15 157 F.3d 715, 720 (9th Cir. 1998); see also Smolen v. Chater, 80 F.3d 1273, 1279 (9th Cir. 1996).

16 Under the substantial evidence test, findings must be upheld if supported by inferences
17 reasonably drawn from the record. Batson, 359 F.3d at 1193. When the evidence will support
18 more than one rational interpretation, the court must defer to the Commissioner’s interpretation.
19 See Burch v. Barnhart, 400 F.3d 676, 679 (9th Cir. 2005); Flaten v. Sec’y of Health and Human 20 Serv., 44 F.3d 1453, 1457 (9th Cir. 1995). Consequently, the issue before the court is not whether 21 the Commissioner could reasonably have reached a different conclusion, but whether the final
22 decision is supported by substantial evidence. It is incumbent on the ALJ to make specific findings 23 so that the court does not speculate as to the basis of the findings when determining if the 24 Commissioner’s decision is supported by substantial evidence. Mere cursory findings of fact 25 without explicit statements as to what portions of the evidence were accepted or rejected are not 26 sufficient. Lewin v. Schweiker, 654 F.2d 631, 634 (9th Cir. 1981). The ALJ’s findings “should be 27 as comprehensive and analytical as feasible, and where appropriate, should include a statement of 28 subordinate factual foundations on which the ultimate factual conclusions are based.” Id.

2. Disability Evaluation Process

The individual seeking disability benefits has the initial burden of proving disability. Roberts v. Shalala, 66 F.3d 179, 182 (9th Cir 1995). To meet this burden, the individual must demonstrate the “inability to engage in any substantial gainful activity by reason of any medically determinable physical or mental impairment which can be expected . . . to last for a continuous period of not less than 12 months.” 42 U.S.C. § 423(d)(1)(A). More specifically, the individual must provide “specific medical evidence” in support of her claim for disability. 20 C.F.R. § 404.1514. If the individual establishes an inability to perform her prior work, then the burden shifts to the Commissioner to show that the individual can perform other substantial gainful work that exists in the national economy. Batson, 157 F.3d at 721.

The ALJ follows a five-step sequential evaluation process in determining whether an individual is disabled. See 20 C.F.R. § 404.1520; Bowen v. Yuckert, 482 U.S. 137, 140 (1987). If at any step the ALJ determines that he can make a finding of disability or nondisability, a determination will be made and no further evaluation is required. See 20 C.F.R. § 404.1520(a)(4); Barnhart v. Thomas, 540 U.S. 20, 24 (2003). Step one requires the ALJ to determine whether the individual is engaged in substantial gainful activity (“SGA”). 20 C.F.R. § 404.1520(b). SGA is defined as work activity that is both substantial and gainful; it involves doing significant physical or mental activities usually for pay or profit. Id. § 404.1572(a)-(b). If the individual is engaged in SGA, then a finding of not disabled is made. If the individual is not engaged in SGA, then the analysis proceeds to the step two.

Step two addresses whether the individual has a medically determinable impairment that is severe or a combination of impairments that significantly limits her from performing basic work activities. Id. § 404.1520(c). An impairment or combination of impairments is not severe when medical and other evidence establishes only a slight abnormality or a combination of slight abnormalities that would have no more than a minimal effect on the individual’s ability to work.

1 Id. § 404.1521; see also Social Security Rulings (“SSRs”) 85-28, 96-3p, and 96-4p.² If the 2 individual does not have a severe medically determinable impairment or combination of 3 impairments, then a finding of not disabled is made. If the individual has a severe medically
4 determinable impairment or combination of impairments, then the analysis proceeds to step three.

5 Step three requires the ALJ to determine whether the individual’s impairments or 6 combination of impairments meet or medically equal the criteria of an impairment listed in 20
7 C.F.R. Part 404, Subpart P, Appendix 1. 20 C.F.R. §§ 404.1520(d), 404.1525, and 404.1526. If 8 the individual’s impairment or combination of impairments meet or equal the criteria of a listing
9 and the duration requirement (20 C.F.R. § 404.1509), then a finding of disabled is made. 20 C.F.R.
10 § 404.1520(h). If the individual’s impairment or combination of impairments does not meet or 11 equal the criteria of a listing or meet the duration requirement, then the analysis proceeds to step 12 four.

13 Before moving to step four, however, the ALJ must first determine the individual’s residual 14 functional capacity (“RFC”), which is a function-by-function assessment of the individual’s ability 15 to do physical and mental work-related activities on a sustained basis despite limitations from 16 impairments. See 20 C.F.R. § 404.1520(e); see also SSR 96-8p. In making this finding, the ALJ
17 must consider all the relevant evidence, such as all symptoms and the extent to which the 18 symptoms can reasonably be accepted as consistent with the objective medical evidence and other
19 evidence. 20 C.F.R. § 404.1529; see also SSRs 96-4p and 96-7p. To the extent that statements
20 about the intensity, persistence, or functionally limiting effects of pain or other symptoms are not 21 substantiated by objective medical evidence, the ALJ must make a finding on the credibility of the 22 individual’s statements based on a consideration of the entire case record. The ALJ must also 23 consider opinion evidence in accordance with the requirements of 20 C.F.R. § 404.1527 and SSRs
24 96-2p, 96-5p, 96-6p, and 06-3p.

25
26
27 ² SSRs constitute the SSA’s official interpretation of the statute and regulations. See Bray v. Comm’r of Soc. Sec.
28 Admin., 554 F.3d 1219, 1224 (9th Cir. 2009); see also 20 C.F.R. § 402.35(b)(1). They are entitled to some deference as long as they are consistent with the Social Security Act and regulations. Bray, 554 F.3d at 1223 (finding ALJ erred in disregarding SSR 82-41).

Step four requires the ALJ to determine whether the individual has the RFC to perform her past relevant work (“PRW”). 20 C.F.R. § 404.1520(f). PRW means work performed either as the individual actually performed it or as it is generally performed in the national economy within the last 15 years or 15 years prior to the date that disability must be established. In addition, the work must have lasted long enough for the individual to learn the job and performed at SGA. 20 C.F.R. §§ 404.1560(b) and 404.1565. If the individual has the RFC to perform her past work, then a finding of not disabled is made. If the individual is unable to perform any PRW or does not have any PRW, then the analysis proceeds to step five.

The fifth and final step requires the ALJ to determine whether the individual is able to do any other work considering her RFC, age, education, and work experience. 20 C.F.R. § 404.1520(g). If she is able to do other work, then a finding of not disabled is made. Although the individual generally continues to have the burden of proving disability at this step, a limited burden of going forward with the evidence shifts to the Commissioner. The Commissioner is responsible for providing evidence that demonstrates that other work exists in significant numbers in the national economy that the individual can do. Yuckert, 482 U.S. at 141-42.

3. Analysis

Plaintiff seeks reversal of the ALJ’s decision because, at step five of the sequential disability analysis, the ALJ identified alternative work not compatible with the RFC. Specifically, on one hand, the ALJ determined that Plaintiff could perform work that did not require that Plaintiff interact more than “occasionally with coworkers, supervisors, and the general public.” On the other hand, based upon a vocational expert’s opinion, the ALJ found that Plaintiff could work in three particular occupations which, under the Dictionary of Occupational Titles (“DOT”), required frequent talking and hearing to perform. Because, according to Plaintiff, “occasional” means “less than frequent or constant,” the RFC and the identified job requirements are inconsistent, the ALJ should have explained the inconsistency. Plaintiff says his failure to do so was error under Massachi v. Astrue, 486 F.3d 1149 (9th Cir. 2007).

The Commissioner responds that the ALJ properly consulted with the vocational expert and obtained evidence that supported his findings. Moreover, the Commissioner argues that the DOT

1 job descriptions do not on their face conflict with the vocational expert's testimony.

2 Here, the DOT job descriptions call for certain "speaking signaling" and "temperament,"
3 but do not indicate that speaking-signaling or temperament are tantamount to frequent interaction
4 with coworkers, supervisors, and the general public. The DOT is silent as to the express mental 5 requirement at issue, and so there is no clear conflict. See Perea v. Comm'r of Social Sec., No.
6 CIV S-10-2237-CMK, No. 2012 WL 1131527, *12 (E.D. Cal. Mar. 30, 2012)(explaining "[a]
7 conflict would exist if the DOT said one thing and the vocational expert said another. There can be
8 no conflict where the DOT is silent because there is nothing as to which the vocational expert's
9 testimony is in disagreement.").

10 The ALJ may meet his burden under step five of the sequential analysis by propounding to a 11 vocational expert hypothetical questions based on medical assumptions, supported by substantial
12 evidence, that reflect all the plaintiff's limitations. See Roberts v. Shalala, 66 F.3d 179, 184 (9th 13 Cir. 1995). Hypothetical questions posed to a vocational expert must set out all the substantial,
14 supported limitations and restrictions of the particular claimant. See Magallanes v. Bowen, 881
15 F.2d 747, 756 (9th Cir. 1989). If a hypothetical does not reflect all the claimant's limitations, the 16 expert's testimony as to jobs in the national economy the claimant can perform has no evidentiary
17 value. See DeLorme v. Sullivan, 924 F.2d 841, 850 (9th Cir. 1991).

18 Here, the ALJ presented the vocational expert with a hypothetical individual with Plaintiff's
19 vocational profile and exact RFC, and the vocational expert testified that such an individual would 20 be capable of performing the representative jobs. The ALJ also confirmed with the vocational 21 expert that the DOT did not cover contact with others, and the vocational expert did not rely 22 exclusively on the DOT's general job descriptions, but also relied on his specific training and 23 education. AR 61. See SSR 00-4p (The Vocational Expert "may be able to provide more specific 24 information about jobs or occupations than the DOT."). Moreover, at the hearing, Plaintiff's
25 attorney cross-examined the vocational expert but did not challenge the vocational expert's
26 representation that his testimony comported with the DOT. Id. The ALJ's reliance on the 27 testimony was proper because his testimony was uncontradicted. See Solorzano v. Astrue, 2012
28 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 4059 (C.D. Cal. Jan. 10, 2012) (rejecting plaintiff's argument that "apparent

1 conflicts” existed between VE’s testimony and DOT in part because plaintiff’s counsel failed to
2 question VE about any such conflicts). Accordingly, the ALJ met his obligations under Massachi
3 and SSR 00-4p to investigate potential conflicts with the DOT, and the ALJ’s reliance on the
4 expert’s testimony was proper. See Mickelson-Wurm v. Comm’r, Soc. Sec. Admin., 285 F. App’x
5 482, 486 (9th Cir. 2008) (“The ALJ must clarify the discrepancy in the opinion only where there is 6 an apparent unresolved conflict that arises between the vocational expert’s testimony and the 7 DOT.”) (emphasis in original)).

8 CONCLUSION AND RECOMMENDATION

9 Accordingly, IT IS HEREBY RECOMMENDED that Plaintiff’s motion for 10 reversal/remand (ECF No. 17) be denied.

11 IT IS FURTHER RECOMMENDED that the Commissioner’s cross-motion to affirm
12 (ECF No. 21) be granted.

13 NOTICE

14 This Report and Recommendation is submitted to the United States district judge assigned
15 to this case under 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1). A party who objects to this Report and Recommendation 16 may file a written objection supported by points and authorities within fourteen days of being 17 served with this Report and Recommendation. Local Rule IB 3-2(a). Failure to file a timely
